

Anassa Taverna

Time Out says

Greek native Nikos Karvelas (of Athens fine-dining spot Varoulko) reps his heritage at this bi-level seafood taverna. Exposed-brick walls and white leather banquettes line the 3,000-square-foot corner restaurant, which hawks traditional evil-eye baubles and komboloi worry beads in the front. The menu features grilled dishes, like swordfish kebabs with split-pea mousse, lavraki (sea bass) and capers, and Maine lobster with lemon sauce. Choose from more than 85 wines, including bottles by Hellenic producers Domaine Gerovassiliou and Biblia Chora.

Venue location

Address:	200 E 60th St Midtown East New York 10065
Cross Street:	at Third Ave
Phone:	212-371-5200
Website:	anassataverna.com
Opening hours:	Mon–Thu 5:30–11:30pm; Fri, Sat 5:30pm–midnight; Sun 5:30–11pm
Transport:	Subway: N, Q, R to Lexington Ave–59th St; 4, 5, 6 to 59th St
Price:	Average main course: $24. AmEx, DC, Disc, MC, V
Categories:	Food & Drink
Facilities:	Restaurant & bar facilities. Full bar. Dinner
Good for:	Meal times. Dinner. Dating. Drinks. Eating out